Teachers in Chicago on Strike

CHICAGO (AP) — Union
teachers began a strike today against Chicago's eight public junior colleges. A second teachers' strike that would close all the city's public schools was threatened for Monday.

The junior-college walkout of 500 union teachers officially began at midnight. Teachers prepared to picket as classes started this morning. American Federation of Teachers (AFL-CIO) officials predicted that all but a handful of the system's 684 teachers would strike.

As Local 1600, Cook County College Teachers Union, authorized its midnight walkout Thursday, the Chicago Teachers Union voted unanimously to strike every grammar and high school in the city Monday.

The junior college strike affects about 36,000 students.
But a strike by the 13,500-member Chicago Teachers Union would affect more than 570, 000 pupils in 550 public schools.
The CTU predicted that many of the system's 8,500 nonunion teachers also would strike.

A CTU official said the union's strike committee would meet today, but he added that the Board of Education also had scheduled a meeting. Asked if that meant the dispute might be settled before the Monday strike deadline, he replied, "There's always a chance."

The college teachers approved the walkout after the junior college board offered to levy a quarter-cent of additional taxes for pay boosts.

"They could have offered us 3 cents of tax power," said the union president, Norman G.
Swenson. "But to offer us a mere quarter of a cent is an insult and forces us to take strike action."

Instructors asked $3 million cash and benefits; limits of 25 students per class; no more than 12 hours of instruction per week, and a reduction of the school year from 10 to nine months.

The college instructors ask a $1,650 across-the-board increase. Median salary for the college teachers now is $9,000 and salaries range from $6,450 for some instructors to $15,900 for some full professors.

Chancellor Oscar E. Shabat of the Junior College Board said the board offered some $948,000 in cash and benefits in 1967.
The CTU has asked $1,000 across-the-board annual increases; the board has offered $110. The CTU has asked a total of $50 million in salaries and benefits for the coming year;
the board's offer totals $5.4 million.

Prison Power Line Fails

GOULD, Ark. (AP) — A burned power line knocked out electricity to Cummins Prison
Farm for more than an hour
Thursday night.

An Arkansas Power & Light
Co. spokesman said it was not determined what caused the line to burn, also cutting off power to the Lincoln County community of Varner for about 1½ hours and to Gould for less than an hour.

The line burned at the Varner substation.

Campbell Has First Round in Judge Fight

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Pulaski County Judge Arch Campbell retained his position Thursday for the time being.

Circuit Judge Warren Wood ruled that Campbell should continue to hold his position although his term has expired until a successor is elected and qualified.

Wood ruled unconstitutional a 1929 state law on which Robert O. Justice of North Little Rock, the other claimant to the county judge's position, based his case. The law provides for a successor to be named by appointment in instances where a vacancy occurs because of death, resignation, removal or abandonment.

Wood said Amendment 19 of the state Constitution super-sedes the law. It provides that an incumbent remain in office until his successor is "duly elected and qualified."

Justice was appointed to the position by Gov. Orval Faubus shortly after midnight New Year's Day to replace County Judge-elect Tom Guiley, who died on Thanksgiving Day in the White River.

Wood ruled that Faubus had no right to appoint Justice. He said the appointment conferred nothing upon Justice.

Campbell had maintained that only he could legally occupy the office until an election were held to name someone to take Guiley's place. Campbell did not seek re-election.

Justice is expected to appeal
the judge's decision to the Arkansas Supreme Court.

ment over policy.

Lamb's term expired Saturday. Lamb had said Wednesday he didn't know if he was still chairman but that he was under the impression that commission policy was to reappoint all committee members and chairmen.

He said Thursday, however, that he received a letter from John A. Hanna, the commission president, thanking him for his work.

"I guess that's it," Lamb said.

Last month, Lamb was severely critical of the commission for revising a report from the state committee before its publication. Lamb said the revision left the report with "no guts or spirit in it."

Failure to reappoint him, however, "in no way had anything to do with any disagreement on policy that may or may not have occurred between Mr. Lamb and the commission," said Clarence Hunter, the commission's chief of information.

Tower for TV Cable

From the top of this 500-foot tower will come the signals to be fed into the new TV cable system which will soon be put into service here in Hope. The tower is located just off the experiment station road north of town. Attached to the tower are thirty-four receiving antennas in addition to two micro-wave relay disks.

The signals from this array go first to the "head-end" building where they are filtered, amplified and then fed into the "trunk line" which carries them into town. Once these signals reach town, the trunk line is split into "feeder lines" which carry the signals throughout the city. The signals are re-amplified at specific intervals along the cable so that they are kept at a predetermined level throughout the system.

At each customer's home a "tap off" is inserted into the cable and a "drop" is made to the home. This is a small cable about the circumference of a lead pencil which runs from the "tap off" to a small transformer which is attached to the TV set.

According to Bill Groves, who is Sales Manager of Hope Community TV, Inc., "When the system is completed the people of Hope will be able to enjoy TV such as was never before possible in this area. The cable will bring to your TV set seven commercial TV channels plus the Arkansas Educational Station, plus a 24-hour local time and weather channel, plus three channels of FM music.

One of the many features of cable viewing will be the availability of Arkansas programming to residents of the Hope area. For the first time you will be able to realize the full capability of your television set. You will enjoy the thrills and excitement of more television than is available even in the largest metropolitan areas, all for just pennies per day."

Yorky Lashes Right Back at Kennedy

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — In identical letters to some 600 complaining Californians, Sen.
Robert F. Kennedy has eweeld his charge that Mayor Samuel Yorty is not providing the leadership Los Angeles needs.

And Yorty says the Kennedy letter has some of his city's citizens irate.

The debate began face to face at an explosive Senate hearing on Aug. 23 when Kennedy and Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., complained about Yorty's style of city leadership.

Their harsh words touched off a deluge of letters. Kennedy's office reported he got about 900, and said they ran 4-to-1 in Yorty's defense.

A spokesman said he answered all but about 100, which were considered abusive and were discarded.

Ribicoff and the Senate subcommittee on executive reorganization which he heads reaped a 3,000-letter harvest.
Those letters were not answered.

Almost all of them criticized Ribicoff and the subcommittee and defended the Los Angeles mayor.

At the hearing, on the problems facing big cities, Yorty testified that many major Los Angeles problems were not in his domain, that they were within the province of independent agencies or communities.

Ribicoff said Yorty had waived jurisdiction in education, welfare, transportation, employment, health and housing.

Then Ribicoff declared: "Los Angeles brags all over the country about how big and rich you are, what you stand for, and I would say that the city of Los Angeles right now, from what you've said, doesn't stand for a damn thing."

"You might not have the responsibility," Kennedy told Yorty then, "but you are the mayor and it seems to me we could expect some leadership from you."

Yorty, home in Los Angeles, charged the criticism was all part of a plot designed to help propel Kennedy to the White House.

Soon, the letters began pouring in to the Capitol.

Kennedy's reply to critical letters said no insult to the city of Los Angeles or to California was intended, and none should be inferred.

He said much the same thing in a second letter, which went to people who wrote supporting his critical questioning.

But his letter to critics also said: "Mayor Yorty seemed to have neither the necessary information on the crucial factors involved in running a city — education, welfare, health, employment — nor any imaginative proposals to deal with these vital issues."

"While it is true that the mayor of Los Angeles, as in many other cities, lacks direct control or responsibility in many of these areas, he is still the elected leader of the city, and I believed — and still do — that he should provide leadership and stimulate public awareness of the problems."

Thailand to Send Troops to Vietnam

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) —
Premier Thanom Kittikachorn said today that Thailand will send more than 1,000 jungle-trained troops to South Vietnam as soon as possible.

The premier said the troops would be volunteers from the regular army and the reserves.
Thailand now has an air transport unit and two small navy ships with the anti-Communist forces in Vietnam.

Thanom told a special news conference the exact size of the Thai expeditionary force and their time of departure have not been determined. He said an official call for volunteers will be issued soon.

He said the National Security Council and the cabinet have approved the sending of troops.

SINUS TROUBLE CAN BE CORRECTED

By Dr. Charles Johnson

Sinus trouble is very prevalent in this part of the country. Some of the symptoms are frontal headache, pain about the orbits of the eyes and through the areas of the nose. There seems to be a continuous drainage from the nose, the eyes are affected and water. The lack of the ability of the body to sudden weather changes seem to be the predisposing cause. This is due to the lack of control of these tissues by the nervous system. Chiropractic adjustments remove the cause of these incoordination very readily and in most cases complete recovery is possible. Presented as a public service for better health by the Johnson Chiropractic Clinic, 901 S. Main, Hope, Ark. Phone PR 7-5353.

urbs" so despised by writers who live in Manhattan or Beverly Hills. Ben also had to belong to a country club — for company reasons never really explained. But basically Ben's financial problems seemed more the result of extremely bad luck than anything else. He had to support his widowed mother, his child needed expensive medical and surgical treatment, his car developed a fatal, internal malady. And it seemed that drinks were always spilling drinks on his wife's best, expensive dress.

All this led to the Weldons behaving like the Bickersons. Trouble was compounded when a banker refused to extend his loan and gave him a snippy lecture on thrift. Worst of all was his relationship with a silly pretentious man who was his boss and wanted him to live at a good address.

Finally, of course, Ben saw the error in his ways. He lowered his professional sights and when last seen was en route to a $30,000 a year job in Denver, where presumably there lurks neither deadly conformity, status seeking or fashionable suburbs.

The vital performances of Cliff Robertson and Dina Merrill as the couple were almost enough to make one overlook the silliness of the basic story and the big holes in the logic of the premise.

ABC, still happy over the extraordinarily large audience it received for its "Bridge on the River Kwai" broadcast last fall, now has acquired rights for two broadcasts of what it hopes is another blockbuster. It is the 1952 film, "The Robe," and it will be shown on Easter Sunday this year and next.

The deal is reputed to have cost ABC $2 million, and the two and one-half hour feature will be shown uncut and interrupted only once for commercials by its automobile sponsor.

CREATIVE CAREERS

by Ruth Wade Ray

Q. How can I tell whether I have creative talent?

A. You can test yourself or ask your high school counselor to give you a creativity test. Ask yourself: "Do I like to do things in an unusual way, bringing my own personality to bear on the project at hand?" And, "Do I like to think up new ideas?" If the answer to both is "yes," you will probably do well in this field. In other words, if you feel creative you probably are creative.

Q. Where can a creative person make the most of his talents?

A. After a careful study of career opportunities for the creative person, our school concentrated on six areas that offer the best opportunities for immediate and long range financial rewards for graduates. They are shown on the chart below.

HELEN HELP US!

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help US!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teenage questions to Helen Help US!, this newspaper.

CONSTANT COMPLAINERS NEED COMEUPPANCE

Dear Helen: My husband complains about at least one food, usually more, on the table at every meal. For instance, last night he announced he preferred boiled shrimp to my breaded ones, and he didn't like the new salad dressing. I had home-made chocolate cake and bought ice cream for dessert. He said the ice cream was good.

Recently he refused to eat his salad because the lettuce wasn't green enough. No matter how I make coffee in the electric percolator, he says it taste burnt. He doesn't like the way I make toast in the toaster. I could go on and on.

Now our 11-year-old is taking a leaf from her father's notebook. I can't win for losing. Helen, I am not the best cook, but neither am I the worst in the world. Should I smile and say nothing, or what?— DEFLATED

Dear Def: I'd be tempted to dump the food they knock over their picky-picky heads, but instead, why not say SOMETHING, loud and clear? Like, "One more complaint and you'll get a meal to complain about!" And prove it by cheerfully serving cold canned beans and instant coffee next day.

When they learn constant slams bring out the "bean-ness" in you, I think they'll switch to praise. — H.

Dear Helen: What a time we had last evening! This is our sophomore daughter's first year to date, and the first event to arise was the "Sno-Ball," a big dance.

Three boys asked her. Number One called first and she told him, "You can't take me, you're taking Carla — remember?" "I am?" the boy asked, surprised. Carla and our girl are good friends and she knew Carla wanted to go with Number One — she even had her dress bought — so she worked it so he'd take her. He never knew what hit him. Sadly, daughter wanted to go with Number One, but she sacrificed him for her friend.

Then Number Two called three times. Daughter says he's a creep with a bad reputation. So, "Thank you, but no."

Number Three comes along. He's a nice boy but "not neat!" By this she means he's clean, neat, but not Hep-neat. She says, "Sorry I have other plans."

When "dumb mother's" opinion was asked, I said, "Come the big night you're going to feel pretty sad staying home. As long as Number Three is a nice boy, why not go and have a good time—it could lead to "neater" dates later, and, besides, give him a chance: maybe he's neater than you think."

Result: "Mothers just don't understand." She stayed home. I remember back to my dating days when I refused several New Year's offerings, waiting for that "special one," who, of course, didn't call. And I was most miserably alone at home on New Year's Eve! Does Mother sometimes know best?— DUMB MOTHER

Dear D.M.: Of course Mother sometimes knows best, but Mother isn't an unsure, idealistic young teen who could NEVER date a boy she doesn't like! "wouldn't be honest," and, besides, the kids might "put her down" for not attracting a "neater" guy, or — worse — pair her off, so that she'd have a rough time shaking him.

YOU scored advice and learned from experience, remember? Your daughter must too. She'll make several wrong moves before she is adept at the dating game, but she will find them out for herself. A mother's job is to give her opinion when asked, smile and quietly understand when it's considered "pre-historic," and never — but NEVER — say, "I told you so!" — H.

NOTE TO THE BOTTEL GIRLS, before they do an expose on me, I said that's what a mother SHOULD do. Who's perfect? — H.

Hope Star SPORTS

Hope Five Opens Dist. Play Tonight

BY LARRY DON WRIGHT
SPORTSWRITER

The Hope Bobcat basketball team will open its Region 4AA schedule this week-end with important conference games on both Friday and Saturday nights.

The Cats will play host to the pre-season favorites, the Fairview Cardinals tonight in Jones Field House in the first crack at district competition.

Then tomorrow night the Hope boys will journey to Smackover for a bout with the equally powerful Buckaroos.

With two returning lettermen from the team that placed fourth in the conference last season the Cats will have to earn all recognition they receive as title contenders this year.

Much of the load will be carried by those two senior lettermen, Stan Parris and Stan Reyenga.

Parris, a 6 ft 4 postman, is expected to carry most of the rebounding and scoring as he is the only returning starter from last year's squad.

Reyenga, a guard, will be relied on heavily as one of the teams better ball handlers.

Elsewhere the Bobcats boast several other trusty hands who, although lacking experience, will play key roles in this 1967 season.

Other Seniors include Mike Westbrook, Mike Franks, Luther Shaw, a transfer from Yerger High school and Danny Griffin, a transfer from Guernsey.

Juniors are Larry East and Dwight Galloway.

The Cats will have their work out for them in the initial week of conference play as they meet the teams who are picked to finish as the top of the district standings.

The Junior High game will begin at 6:30 in Jones Field House tonight against the visiting Fairview Cardinals.

Knicks Knock Off 76ers

in an Upset

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The big building was cold and the Big Bell was hot.

Star Wilt Chamberlain and Coach Alex Hannum of Philadelphia said after the 76ers lost 112-104 to the New York Knicks on Thursday night at Pittsburgh's Civic Arena that the building was cold, but they didn't think it affected their club's play.

It certainly didn't affect the Knicks' Big Bell — center Walt Bellamy who scored 29 points, 10 in the fourth quarter, and helped hold Chamberlain to 13 points.

The loss, the 76ers' first to the Knicks in seven games this season, snapped their winning streak at 11 games. New York, third behind leading Philadelphia and Boston in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division, upped its record to 5-20 at 21-21. Philadelphia is 37-4.

In the only other game, San Francisco downed Los Angeles 122-91 in Oakland, Calif.

San Francisco posted its fifth straight victory over Los Angeles and boosted its Western Division lead to seven games over the Los Angeles Lakers.

Nate Thurmond, hitting on eight of his first nine field goal attempts, triggered the Warriors with 24 points and 25 rebounds. Teammate Rick Barry, the league's leading scorer, collected 23 points. Jerry West was high for the Lakers with 21.

San Francisco led practically from the outset and built a 59-44 halftime bulge before pulling away after the intermission.

Matson Aims at Indoor Mark

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Handy Matson aims at the world indoor shot put record Saturday night to put beside his outdoor mark.

Still the 262-pound Texas A&M star doesn't do any predicting. "I still have some trouble with the indoor shot," he says and points out that circles indoors sometimes vary.

Yet most expect him to eclipse the 64-foot, 11 1/4 inch mark established by Carry Gubner at New York in 1962. His first 1967 chance comes in the All-American Indoor Games at the Cow Palace.

Two Ranked Cage Teams Are Beaten

Two of college basketball teams were beaten Thursday night, but the most interesting defeat of the evening involved the University of Kentucky and what on earth is going on down there?

The Wildcats were knocked off in overtime by Vanderbilt, 91-89 and it was the fifth home defeat of the season for Adolph Rupp's charges, who used to be invincible at home.

Also defeated were eighth-ranked Cincinnati, which lost to Tulsa 65-64 in overtime and Bradley, rated in a tie for 10th place in The Associated Press poll, which was beaten by Wichita 83-69.

Top Ten winners were Louisville, 86-66 over North Texas State, Houston, 82-62 over Lamar Tech and Providence, 82-59 over Massachusetts.

Kentucky was rated third in the preseason poll and started as if nothing was amiss, beating Virginia 104-84. But then Illinois knocked the Wildcats off 98-97 in overtime in Lexington and it's been happening ever since.

Over-all, in fact, Kentucky is 2-0 on unfriendly or neutral territory, but has managed just a 3-5 record at home.

Vanderbilt led by as much as 18 points in the first half, paced by Jerry Southwood, but the Wildcats stormed from behind to tie the regulation game at 77-77.

Southwood, who was high for Vanderbilt with 20 points, put the Commodores ahead at 89-87 with one minute left in the overtime but Bob Tallent's long one-hander for Kentucky tied it again. Bo Wyanand threw in the winning basket, an easy lay-up, with six seconds left.

Louie Dampier topped Kentucky with 30 points. Eldridge Webb scored six straight points in overtime, breaking Cincinnati's home-court win streak at 20 games.

Cincinnati led through much of the second half, but two free throws by Mike Rolf with nine seconds left in the game, tied the game for Tulsa, now 9-3. Cincinnati, 8-2, has played four overtime games this season, winning the first three.

Bradley led Wichita by five points at halftime, but Warren Armstrong sparked the Shockers to victory with 24 points. Wichita also dominated the boards, hauling in 11 rebounds to Bradley's 38. Bradley is now 9-3.

Louisville's 13th straight victory came before 11,061 hometown fans with Butch Beard scoring 29 points and Westley Unseld adding 22. Unseld also had 19 rebounds.

Houston won its 13th game in 14 starts and 11th in a row with Don Chaney and Elvin Hayes each hitting 16 points. Freshman Phil E. 73aa280 Lamar Tech with 25 points.

Jim Walker, the country's leading scorer, had 29 for Providence, which beat a stubborn Massachusetts squad. The Friars didn't go ahead for good until Walker hit a jump shot from the key with 1:32 left.

In other games, Drake beat St. Louis 69-66, Virginia took NYU 91-84, Canisius won in overtime from Iowa 80-71 and Clemson defeated Georgia Tech 76-55.

Chiefs Plan for Absence of Arbanas

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Kansas City Coach Hank Stram is preparing for the possible absence in the Super Bowl of tight end Fred Arbanas by working rookie Aaron Brown with the Chiefs' offensive unit.

Brown, a defensive end and tackle throughout the season, played both offense and defense at Minnesota. At 6-foot-5, 265 pounds, the first-year man is an imposing figure at light end.

Arbanas suffered a slight shoulder separation in the Chiefs' 31-7 victory over Buffalo for the American Football League title.

The veteran star is a doubtful participant in the Jan. 15 in Los Angeles' Memorial Coliseum against the National Football League champion Green Bay Packers.

Red Wings Slam Chicago in Hockey Play

DETROIT (AP) — "I like them all," Gordie Howe grinned as he shoved two pucks in his pocket, symbolic of his 699th and 700th National Hockey League goals.

Howe scored two goals, Dean Prentice scored twice and Norm Ullman tallied on a penalty shot as the Detroit Red Wings slammed Chicago 6-4 in the only NHL action Thursday night.

Bobby Hull blasted in two long slap shots from left wing, but they weren't enough for Chicago.

"It was a good game," said the 38-year-old Howe, playing his 21st NHL season. "We all got going. It was a great game."

Howe's goals include both regular-season and playoff goals. He breaks his own record each time he scores.

Prentice popped in his 249th and 250th NHL goals to make him only the 19th player in league history to score 250 goals.

Reports Say Gilmer Fired by Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Both Detroit newspapers reported Thursday that Detroit Lions' Coach Harry Gilmer had been fired from his National Football League job and would be replaced by assistant Joe Schmidt.

Neither Schmidt, a former star linebacker with the Lions, nor Lions' owner William Clay Ford could be reached for comment.

Gilmer, on a scouting trip in Mobile, Ala., said, "All I know is what a friend told me he saw on television. I certainly haven't had any official word about it."

Both the Detroit News and the Detroit Free Press quoted unnamed sources in their report.

Rumors had circulated during much of the disastrous 1966 season that Gilmer was on his way out.

He has one year to go on a three-year contract. The Lions won only four games and tied one last season. They lost nine. During Gilmer's two years, the Lions won 10, lost 16 and tied two.

Rundown on Remaining Bowl Games

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

He won't be involved in professional football's championship showdown, but Allie Sherman will have a super time tonight.

Sherman, coach of the beleaguered New York Giants, is in Honolulu for tonight's Hula Bowl game which matches two of college football's top quarterbacks — Florida's Steve Spurrier and Purdue's Bob Griese.

And the beautiful part is that Sherman reportedly can choose either one for his very own.

The Giants are said to have received an option to choose the first quarterback selected in pro football's draft as part of the American and National League merger agreement.

Faced with the problem of choosing between Spurrier and Griese, Sherman may solve it by selecting neither. "They are undoubtedly the top college quarterbacks of the year," he said, "but we haven't definitely decided on the man we'll go for on our first choice."

If Sherman is interested in a position other than quarterback, the Hula Bowl has other talent on view.

Among the running backs are Syracuse's Floyd Little, Mel Farr of UCLA, and Clint Jones of Michigan State. Linemen include George Webster of Michigan State, Lloyd Phillips of Arkansas and Diron Talbert of Texas.

The possibility that Sherman will go after a position other than quarterback is bolstered by the fact that several NFL clubs have unhappy second string signal callers, who might fill the bill in New York.

Among these is Gary Cuozzo, backup man for Johnny Unitas of Baltimore, and George Mira, San Francisco's No. 2 man. Both have expressed dissatisfaction at their inactivity and have asked to be traded.

Cuozzo will be on the bench Sunday in Miami when the Colts and Philadelphia Eagles battle in the NFL's Playoff Bowl.

Promoters expect a sellout for the Playoff Bowl, which matches second place finishers in the Eastern and Western Conferences. Sales have already passed 40,000, far ahead of the pace for the Super Bowl set for Los Angeles a week from Sunday.

And while Griese and Spurrier battle it out in Honolulu, two other top quarterbacks face each other Saturday in the Senior Bowl at Mobile, Ala. — both on the field and on the sidelines.

The coaches will be Norm Van Brocklin of Minnesota and Otto Graham of Washington, a pair of pretty good NFL quarterbacks before they became coaches.

Van Brocklin's North team will start Virgil Carter of Brigham Young, who led the nation in total offense.

Graham, coaching the South, will open with Terry Southall of Baylor at the controls.

Native Diver Returns to Racing Scene

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Native Diver, winner of 26 stakes, all in California, returns to competition Saturday as the highweight in the seven furlongs of the $50,000-added Santa Carlos Handicap at Santa Anita.

The 8-year-old gelding, who won the Santa Carlos in 1965, hasn't raced since finishing out of the money in the Sunset Handicap at Hollywood Park last July 25.

In the Santa Carlos, in which he is expected to have seven or eight rivals, Native Diver will carry 128 pounds with his regular rider, Jerry Lambert, in the saddle.

The star of Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Shapiro's stable is being asked to give six pounds to Ogden Mills Phipps' 5-year-old Time Tested, a member of the small but powerful contingent headed by Buckpasser sent west by trainer Eddie Neely. Time Tested will be ridden by Braulio Baeza, who canceled all of his mounts Friday because of illness.

Other topweights include Pretense, 118, with Bill Shoemaker and last year's winner, Cupid, 117, who'll be handled by the latest Panamanian sensation, Lafitt Pincay Jr. Yonder gets in with the light package of 112 pounds.

Between You'n' Me
By MURRAY OLDERMAN
SPORTS EDITOR
NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSOCIATION

DALLAS, Texas— (NEA) The story is undoubtedly apocryphal, but Paul Hornung was telling it in the Green Bay dressing room before the Dallas showdown. After the Packers finished the season in Los Angeles, they flew into Green Bay with the weather two degrees below zero and a party waiting for them at the airport.

Before coach Vince Lombardi could tear himself away, he was numb. He came into the Lombardi manse and embraced wife Marie. "God," she shuddered, "your hands are cold." "In this house, Marie," said the Packer coach, "you can call me Vinnie." . . .

Lombardi laughed louder than the rest when he heard it. Hornung, incidentally, will be married in Hawaii after the Super Bowl, reducing the ranks of glamorous bachelorhood . . .

The Packers uniformly claimed the tension of the NFL title game got to the Cowboys and affected them in the last spine-tingling moments. "I know you get so nervous before a game," said defensive tackle Henry Jordan, "you get weak. I know they were more nervous. They had to be because they'd never been here before." . . . But quarterback Don Meredith, at least, kept his cool. Day before the game, he came into the dressing room sporting a stitched gash along the side of his cheek from temple to chin and said he'd walked through a glass door. The Cowboys gasped, until Dandy, as he calls himself, pulled the gash away—it had been applied by a theatrical make-up man. . . .

After the bitter last-gasp failure at the two-yard line rubbed out the Cowboys, Meredith was explaining the bootleg option he had called in the huddle. Patiently, he outlined his reasoning and the various possibilities that opened up if the Packers reacted as they were supposed to (all except linebacker Dave Robinson did). "Of course," sighed Don as he recalled the tension of the situation, "you realized all that went through my mind as I sat there calmly waiting to call the play." . . .

Cowboys shouldn't feel too bad at getting the short end of the payoff stick. Buddy Parker, longtime NFL coach who quit the Steelers last year, remembers playing in the 1935 NFL championship game for the Detroit Lions and getting $280 as his share for whipping the New York Giants for the title. Buddy also got $100 a game during the season as his salary, which is quite a change, too. "So I made $1,480 for the year," says Buddy. "But then I keep thinking I only paid $585 for a brand new Plymouth." . . .

Parker, now retired and living in his home town of Kemp, Tex., pegs Leon Hart as the athlete with the greatest amount of ability during his coaching career. "But Buddy Layne," notes Buddy, "was the best football player." . . .

John Mecom, new owner of the New Orleans franchise in the NFL, is busily engaged in such pursuits as picking a name for his team, since it'll be only seven months before it actually takes the field for the first exhibition game. "I guess," said John, "it'll be Saints. But one woman wrote in and suggested we call them the Orangutans. The zoo had burned down, killing the orangutans, so this would be a tribute to them. And also in heavy print, underlined, she said orangutans reminded her of football players—the name fit perfectly. I don't quite agree with her, though." . . .

A man in the little town of Golden Meadow, in the Bayou country south of New Orleans, wrote to Mecom the other day and ordered 1,000 season tickets. . . .

Between you'n' me, quarterback Bart Starr had the firm support of coach Lombardi in passing against the Cowboys in the last minutes of the title game, although the Packers were trying to protect a seven-point lead. "I learned a long time ago," said Vince, "how you can get hurt sitting on a lead. That was back in 1955, when the Bears tied us, 17-17, on a couple of long passes to Harlon Hill." . . .

Arkansas Outdoors

By GEORGE M. PURVIE, Chief
Information-Education Division

By GEORGE M. PURVIE, Chief

LITTLE ROCK, Jan. 5 — Contrary to what some hunters believe, there are no true species of wild hogs running loose in Arkansas nor has there ever been in recorded history. The only native wild hog in America is the peccary found only in the arid Southwestern part of the United States, and there are no peccaries in Arkansas.

The state does have some domestic hogs or feral hogs that have gone wild, but the Game and Fish Commission has no regulations dealing with them. There are no open seasons and no closed season. The G&FC does not encourage the hunting of these feral hogs and cautions would-be hog hunters that in most instances the so-called "wild hogs" are claimed by someone. A hunter is likely to run afoul of county law enforcement officials when he kills a feral hog.

The only Commission regulation that even remotely touches on hog hunting is one which states that any resident, 16 years of age and older, who hunts anything in Arkansas must have a valid hunting license. Non-resident hunters of any age must have a license.

According to Hugh Hackler, Director of the Game and Fish Commission, "The Commission wildlife officers enforce only G & F regulations. If a hunter is hog hunting, the wildlife officer will check him only for his hunting license—and not because he is hog hunting."

GOOD RESOLUTION

LITTLE ROCK—Ricky Hale, a young hunter from Pine Bluff, has made a good New Year's resolution—"to buy a beagle puppy in the summer and train it." This was a postscript on a letter Ricky sent recently to the G & F.

Beagles make excellent pets and are good hunting dogs for snajoy countless hours of pleasure and recreation each year by "running" beagles. The music of beagle hounds, punctuated by an occasional shot, will be ringing across the state through Feb. 15, when the rabbit season closes. The young men that join the "Beagle Set" will not be the ones hailed into the juvenile courts.

NOVEMBER FINES REPORT

LITTLE ROCK—Arkansas' superb deer and duck hunting draws thousands of non-resident hunters. Most are good sportsmen, but some are not. During November 100 hunters were fined for license violations. Of this number 56 were non-residents.

Twenty-four were fined for not having a hunting license, and another 32 non-resident hunters tried to hoodwink the wildlife officers by buying resident hunting license. The state has its share of game violators, too. Forty-four residents were fined for not having a hunting license.

Most of the 369 offenders who drew fines were deer hunters, with 119 cited. Sixty-eight duck hunters were apprehended, another 13 were guilty of jumping the gun on the quail season, three coon hunters were fined, and the remaining were for other hunting and fishing offenses.

Fines came to $14,069.15, with $1,867 suspended.

COSTLY BEER

STUTTGART—Throwing a beer can into a state stream or lake is an easy thing to do, and a fisherman would probably think twice before dropping a beer can over the side if he first stuffed a $10 bill in it. One Arkansas County fisherman indirectly did this, as he became the second person fined $10 under the G&F anti-litter law for throwing a beer can into one of the county's waters.

MORE THAN THE EYES SEE

LONOKE—Most fishermen in the state are not aware of the planning, work, and research that is carried out on a day-to-day basis by the Commission's Fisheries Division.

In a recent summary, more than seven pages were required to list merely the publications and reports—excluding administrative reports—put out by this division on its work for the past 15 years.

The state ranking in fifth place in the nation last year in the sales of non-resident fishing permits is mute testimony to the state's excellent fishing — and to the good job that is being done

Get Ready for the Income Tax

By RAY DE CRANE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Several million Americans who never in their life have had to file an income tax return will be wrestling with the complexities of Form 1040 for the first time in 1967.

The thousands of U.S. servicemen in Viet Nam who have young wives at home will be seeking answers to tax questions they hadn't dreamed of just a year ago. Do they get any special credit for combat service? How do you get a signature on a tax form from an infantryman waging guerrilla war against the Viet Cong?

And how about you 65 million other taxpayers who are becoming old hands at this annual routine? Will you be filing your 1966 income tax return in identical fashion to the one you completed a year ago? You had better not if any of these events occurred in your family last year:

- A birth, a death, a marriage involving you or any of your children.
- You or your wife turned 65.
- You had unusual medical expenses.
- You sold your home.
- Money was made or lost in the stock market.
- You made contributions toward the support of a parent.
- You retired on pension or started to receive Social Security payments.
- There was a separation or divorce.
- You moved and changed jobs.

How these factors—and many more—can affect your return will be covered in this series of 14 articles of which this is the first.

Joint Or Separate Return?

There are rare instances where separate returns by a husband and wife may produce a greater savings than on a joint return.

But in the great majority of cases, a joint return—because of its lower tax rates—is the more economical.

Exceptions to the general rule occur where husband and wife each have income and where there may be unusually high medical expenses or capital losses.

Since medical expenses for taxpayers under 65 are not deductible until after they exceed 3 per cent of income, it is apparent that a separate return by the party having a lower income and relatively high medical expenses would produce a bigger medical deduction.

It must be remembered that when one spouse itemizes his deductions on a separate return the other must also itemize instead of taking the 10 per cent or the minimum standard deduction.

When a medical deduction is claimed on a separate return care must be taken to see that payment of the medical expenses is made by the spouse's own funds. Payments made by check on a joint checking account, for instance, will be assumed to have been paid one-half by each spouse.

The only way to make sure of a savings on separate returns is to try both methods and then file the one which saves you the most money. Where separate returns are made, each partner must list all of his own income.

The exception is in so-called community property states where all income received from property acquired after marriage is treated as community income with half belonging to each spouse.

If a husband and wife each had capital losses on investments last year they may be able to obtain greater advantage of their losses on separate returns.

On a joint return they must first use the losses to offset capital gains and if any loss remains they may apply $1,000 of it as a write-off against other income. On separate returns they each could get full advantage of the $1,000 reduction against other income after first reducing their gains.

A lesser opportunity for savings on separate returns occurs where a husband and wife each had income under $5,000 and use the automatic tax tables instead of itemizing deductions. Sometimes the combined tax on separate returns using this method is less than the tax on a joint return. In such instances the savings generally is less than $5.

THE DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Oral and Local Treatments Available for Ringworm

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I have had a fungus infection under my nails for many years. You recently suggested using tetracycline phosphate with nystatin for this condition. What is the trade name for these products?

A—Tetracycline phosphate is sold as Panmycin. Nystatin and Tetrex are nystatin. These drugs, obtainable only on a doctor's prescription, are of value only if the causative fungus is Candida albicans.

Q—What is the cause, prevention and cure of itching water bumps that occur only in summer on my hands and feet?

A—These vesicles may be caused by contact with some plant or chemical irritant to which you are sensitive or by ringworm which is a fungus infection that is most troublesome in warm weather. The treatment and prevention would depend on the cause.

Q—I have been using pragmat with sulfur and salicylic acid for ringworm but it keeps coming back. Is there a medicine that can be taken by mouth that would cure it?

A—Griseofulvin taken by mouth has cleared up chronic ringworm infections but it must be taken regularly for several months to effect a cure. A newer drug for local application — tolinaftate (Tinactin) — is worth a try. Both drugs require a doctor's prescription.

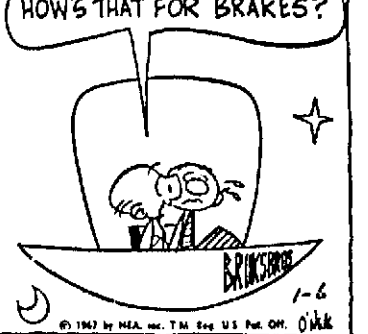

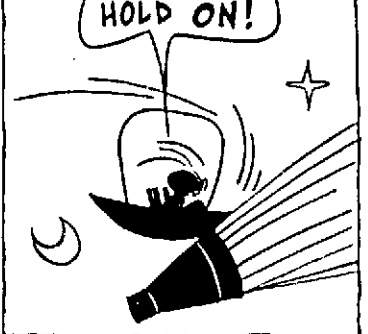

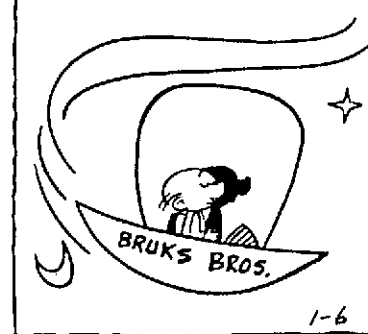

Q—What is a yeast infection? On what part of the body would it appear? What can a person do to cure it?

A—There are a great many yeast or fungus infections and they may affect the skin, lungs, intestines and other organs. If you can identify the yeast I will give you more specific information about it.

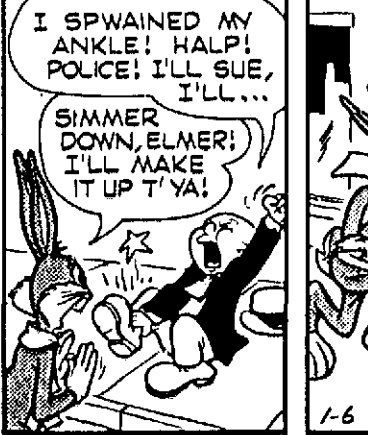

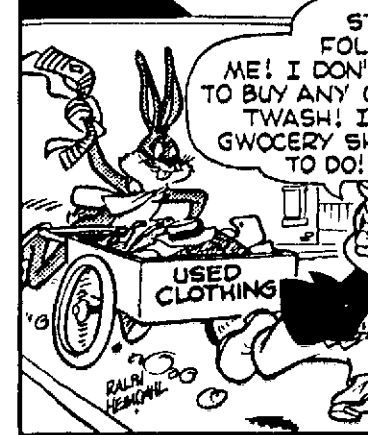

Q—I have sciatic pains. Massage and aspirin help but I still have a lot of pain, especially on getting up in the morning. Can anything be done for this?

A—Sciatic pain is a symp-

FACTS

Pidgin or pigeon English is a special jargon that was first used between Chinese and early English merchants. While it has no formal grammar, it is composed mainly of corrupted English words arranged according to Chinese syntax. It became the common language for business transactions between Europeans and Asians, according to The World Almanac. The term itself is a Chinese mispronunciation of the words, "business English."

Only a great expert could manage this hand to get himself set at four spades. West opened the king of clubs and continued with the queen. East overtook with the ace and cashed the jack. West discarded the nine of diamonds and East led the jack.

The ordinary South player would waste no time running off the rest of the tricks. He would win the diamond, play the ace and king of trumps, cash the other high diamond, ruff his low diamond with dummy's last trump, return to his hand with the ace of hearts and show his hand.

Expert South didn't take this simple view of the hand. He had noted that East had shown up with five clubs and West with only two. South decided that the chances were that East would hold one spade and West three. In that case the odds would be three to one that West would hold the queen.

In ordinary circumstances South could guard against the singleton queen in the East hand by playing his king of spades and continuing with the jack for a finesse.

The trouble with this line of play would be that all North's three trumps would be used up that way and that South would be left with a losing diamond. Therefore South decided to lead his jack of spades and let it ride for an immediate finesse. This would give him a chance to have his cake and eat it also.

South tried this play and East made his singleton queen of trumps.

'Old Enough to Fight, Old Enough to Vote'

By PHILIP R. WERDELL
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

EAST LANSING, Mich.—(NEA)—It did not make the newspapers nationally because it was only a minor issue to the Michigan voters last November.

But Michigan students were extremely disappointed when a proposal to grant suffrage to 18-, 19- and 20-year-old Michigan citizens was voted down 2 to 1 in a statewide referendum last November.

"The major reason we lost is because not one politician campaigned actively for us," said Ed Robinson, student body president at the University of Michigan.

"The issue of the 18-year-old vote could easily pick up again by election time in 1968."

Student interest in the issue already is picking up around the country.

At the University of Colorado, the Young Democrats have taken up the task of organizing support among the student body for the 18-year-old vote. Club Vice President Terry Jones said, "I think that if the 18-year-olds were given the vote, placing more responsibility on them, high schools would have to become more responsible in making students aware of politics."

At the University of California at Los Angeles a student referendum was held on the 18-year-old vote. Students voted 2 to 1 in favor, just the opposite of the returns from the Michigan referendum. "It showed that it is not a dead issue," said Ron Javor, who originated the UCLA referendum.

Rallies have begun by students at Adelphi College in New York to develop student support for the vote.

Ken Davis of Drake University has been elected by a group of student governments in Iowa and Nebraska colleges to lobby for the vote with the Young Democrats in that region.

At the University of Mississippi, the student newspaper has begun an editorial campaign for it.

The Redlands University Bulldog editorialized recently in favor of the vote. Student editor Hal Hedrick wrote, "The 18-year-old who is deemed mature enough to accept the rigors of war is said to be too young to defend and lead his country in more peaceful times."

Everybody, just about, thinks 18-year-olds should be allowed to vote. President Johnson thinks so and the late President Kennedy thought so. In fact, no one running for national office since World War II has not endorsed lowering the voting age.

Most of the House of Representatives and most of the Senate now favor the 18-year-old vote, and so do most of our governors, according to a poll taken in September by Moderator magazine. More than 55 per cent of America's adults favor lowering the voting age. And so do most 18- to 20-year-olds.

So why aren't 18-year-olds voting?

Former President Eisenhower proposed that 18-, 19- and 20-year-olds be given the right to vote. A constitutional amendment to that effect was passed by the House in 1954.

But in the U.S. Senate, the amendment failed by five votes. Five of the senators who voted against the amendment favored extending the suffrage, but they favored "states' rights" more. Senators John F. Kennedy, Lyndon B. Johnson, Russell Long, Price Daniel and Richard B. Russell thought that the decision about voting age should be left up to the individual states. And the issue was dropped.

Gov. George Romney proposed the 18-year-old vote for Michigan. The Michigan House and Senate followed by putting the issue up for referendum on the Nov. 8 ballot.

With war comes the slogan, "Old enough to fight, old enough to vote." The war in Vietnam has made many people question whether the youngsters fighting for Uncle Sam shouldn't have the right to vote.

Many agree with that sentiment. "It is my judgment that the high schools and colleges are doing a better job of teaching the sciences than in previous decades. I think this generation of young people is better informed about government problems and more actively concerned about national and international issues than my generation was at that age," says Congresswoman Edith Green of the House Committee on Education and Labor.

"Our expanded communications systems has made today's young person much more aware of what is happening in the United States and throughout the world than was his grandfather, even at age 25," Rep. J. Arthur Younger (R-Calif.) adds. There are facts supporting the vote:

- Experienced educators observe that students are taking their education more and more seriously.

- Increasing specialization of employment today places heavier demands on the fresh-out-of-high-school students who enter the labor market, and they have responded well to these demands.

- Young people have become increasingly active in local and national political campaigns of both parties since the presidential candidacies of John F. Kennedy and Barry Goldwater.

- Most members of the Peace Corps and Vista come from the under-21 age group. Over 200,000 American students are tutoring culturally deprived children in America's slums and ghettos.

"America is young and getting younger," says Rep. Donald Rumsfeld (R-Ill.). "Half of the population increase in the last five years has been in the 14-24 age group. Thirty-four million Americans are between 14 and 24, many of them serving their country in the military services. There is a growing awareness on the part of young America of the importance of the democratic way of life, and that this interest may be nurtured and encouraged through access to the ballot box."

Dick Gasperini, president of the Student Council at Michigan Technological University, put it this way: "Today's youth are the real leaders of this country. People no longer strive to keep up with the Joneses but with youth."

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—(NEA)—The usual fear of a loss in American prestige—this time in Africa—is ostensibly the reason why the U.S. State Department probably will back economic sanctions against Rhodesia.

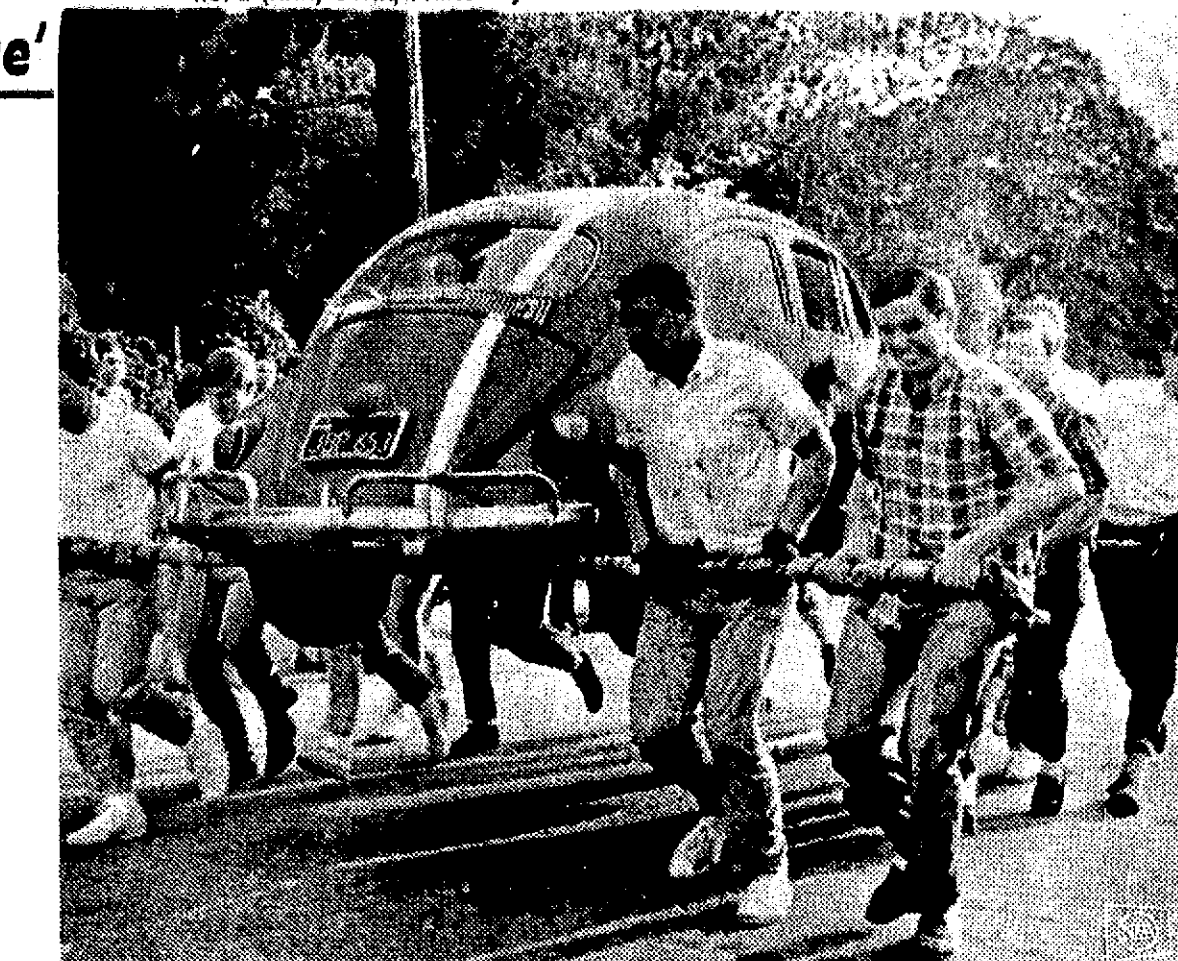

Yet it is still to be proven that this sort of policy has gained a single friend for the United States among the African states.

Most African delegates in the United Nations consider

THE YOUNG HAVE FUN, no doubt about that. This Volkswagen-tote contest on a California campus is a good example. But it isn't all play and no seriousness. Today's 18-20 age group leaders point out they are quite serious about their efforts to lower the voting age to 18.

so obsessed with the myth of "prestige" that they fail to face Rhodesian realities.

They still regard Rhodesia's independence as a "rebellion." They refuse to acknowledge that Smith's government is an accomplished fact and that it can be overthrown only by military force.

Competent observers assert economic sanctions, however drastic, will no longer bring down the Smith government since Portugal and South Africa will not co-operate with the United Nations. In their view, sanctions will only succeed in uniting the white Rhodesians.

Military action would surely provoke South Africa and inflame all of Africa.

Yet even a "moderate" African statesman like Tanzania's President Nyerere insists that suspicion about British and American sincerity can be eliminated only by the crushing defeat of the Smith regime.

One young African diplomat in the U.N. was more blunt: "Britain and the United States must destroy Ian Smith even if they have to use force." The same diplomat assailed the United States bitterly for sanctions against Rhodesia an evasion of the real issue which, in their view, is the immediate overthrow of Prime Minister Ian Smith's rebel government.

In their view, "American colonialists" are merely trying to extricate Britain from a difficult situation. Would it not be wiser for the United States to stay neutral and work for moderation in the dispute?

One of the illusions of our time is that it is possible for one side in an international dispute to win unconditionally.

After all, Britain maintains friendly relations with the United States despite the fact that Prime Minister Wilson's government trades with Red China and North Vietnam. Surely the white Rhodesians' fight for independence and survival is hardly a greater crime than calls for unconditional surrender.

Unfortunately, the State Department's diplomats, Ambassador Goldberg included, are

And what does Paul Richards want to stand for? "I just don't want to be a prostitute," he says.

That is why Paul Richards, a fine actor and a thoughtful man, has refused to do another series. His first was Breaking Point. There could have been others, but Richards turned them down.

Instead, for 1½ years after Breaking Point went off, he toured with plays.

Somewhere in that time he began doing commercials—for Pontiac, for Continental Insurance, for Braniff Airlines—and he found he made more money doing those than he had as a star of a series.

That has led to what could be the most exciting prospect of his life. General Motors wants him to star on a show designed "to humanize" the company. Their thought is to have Richards travel the world, interviewing famous people and attending great events. He is thrilled by the idea. He would stand for something.

There is no compelling reason for the United States to pull Prime Minister Wilson's political chestnuts out of the fire. A wiser and more realistic policy would be for the United States to exert its influence on Britain and Rhodesia to continue negotiations for a peaceful solution.

Desk Carving Era Passes

Many a man has left his mark on yesterday's education, in the form of schoolboy hieroglyphics carved into a desk top of hard maple wood. But those days are rapidly going the way of the dunce cap and the little red schoolhouse, with the advent of colorful plastic models that defy idle scratchers and scribblers.

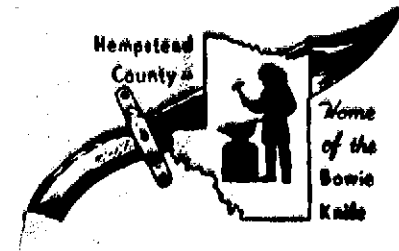

Replacing the old combination school desk at upper right, in which the writing surface of one desk was attached to the seat of the pupil ahead and so on, are high density polyethylene seat desks that are virtually indestructible. They include the half-desk writing surfaces as shown at upper left, and the full front surface at left. Both are a far cry from the barefoot scholar shown at right—at pre-1900 academics. But the old soft-wood desks are not forgotten so easily. Many a businessman today instinctively places a pad or cushion of some kind under a single sheet of writing paper—a lifetime habit from the days when a former student's desk art work could make a mockery of penmanship.

We Get Hope Some National Publicity

The Star's purchase of the second newspaper-owned Berkeley Direct Screen System for four-color printing caused the national newspaper magazine Editor & Publisher to run in its current issue (Dec. 31) a two-and-a-half column story headlined: "Small Daily Set for 4-Color Offset."

Now I'm getting advance letters from what looks like an avalanche of inquiries about how the new Berkeley System operates — an invention that was announced only last October. There are two models of the machine. The smaller one, accepting color transparencies up to 4x5 inches, was the first machine sold to an American newspaper, going to the Cowles family's (they own Des Moines Register & Tribune) new suburban newspaper, Suffolk Sun, at Deer Park, L. I. The Star, No. 2 purchaser, bought the larger model, handling from 35 mm. up to 8x10 transparencies; and the same machine went to the No. 3 buyer, Chicago Tribune. So, small as the Star is, its purchase, made without inquiry or consultation, puts it in the company of newspaper giants.

Our gamble actually wasn't as great as the newness of the untried machine would indicate. Berkeley Technical Corp. is the Cadillac of the industrial photographic world. We already owned several of their top-flight machines — the 4x5 Omega enlarger, four Ascorlux electronic flash, and the Ascorlux air-lamps on the big Brown camera which produces our newspaper pages. What Berkeley makes always works — and when they announced a major breakthrough in the tedious and uncertain business of making separation negatives for four-color pictures, and other expansion-minded newspapers took them at their word.

You will be able to judge for yourself shortly. Our Berkeley machine, still in its crate, has been in our shop since mid-December. The week-end of Saturday, Jan. 14, we expect to tear out one wall of the news darkroom, necessary because the machine is a big one, measuring 6 by 6 feet and 8 feet tall. On Jan. 15 Garland Bosley, co-owner of Jungland Co., Little Rock, selling agent for Berkeley, will supervise uncrating and moving the machine into the darkroom, after which the wall will be replaced.

On Jan. 23 the Chicago manager of Berkeley along with Eastman Kodak Co. experts from Dallas will arrive in Hope to begin testing the machine. They will hand-make a perfect set of four separation negatives, then put the correct exposure data into the computer — and after that almost anyone can make four-color separations by merely pressing a series of buttons.

What the new Berkeley machine does is to automate what is known as the "color mix." The primary colors are red, blue, and yellow. As they are overprinted they produce all the colors of the spectrum. For instance, blue and yellow produce green; and red and yellow make gold. But each of the color separation negatives requires different and exact exposures; any human failure winds up with an off-color picture.

With the new Berkeley machine the operator merely takes a light reading for the black-and-white negative, which varies from one color transparency to another. He reads this exposure into the computer, which automatically gives the new and correct exposure for red, blue, and yellow. Instead of taking days and weeks to accomplish this as a hand operation the operator and the Berkeley machine do it in less than an hour.

Far I have letters regarding Berkeley article in Editor & Publisher magazine from the following: Burlington (Vt.) Free Press, Person (Ky.) Gleaner & Journal, the Bend (Ore.) Bulletin, the Fayetteville (Ark.) North Arkansas Times.

Copies of this article are going to each of them. All want to know Berkeley's address. It is: Berkeley Technical Corp., 1550 5th St., Woodside (NYC) New York 11377

Snowstorm Sweeps Over Wide Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A severe snowstorm, with gusty winds causing much drifting, swept across wide areas in the West and spread into the northern Plains and sections of the northern Midwest today.

Cold air, with temperatures below zero and in the teens in many areas, added to the discomfort.

Snow fell during the night and early morning from Montana and northern Arizona across the central Rockies to the Great Lakes region. Heaviest amounts were in mountain areas.

The drifting snow prompted issuance of hazardous-driving warnings from the Weather Bureau for wide areas from Utah and northern Arizona across the northern and central Rockies to northwestern Oklahoma, Minnesota and Iowa. Heavy amounts were indicated in many parts of the storm belt.

Light snow fell in northern Illinois, southeastern Wisconsin, southern Lake Michigan, southwestern Lower Michigan and northern Indiana. Heavier accumulations were reported in parts of the Dakotas and Minnesota.

Wind gusts up to 52 m.p.h. whipped the Rapid City, S.D., area during the night. Snow amounts up to four inches appeared likely for the Dakotas. Three inches of snow fell in Wisconsin, N.D., and in much of Minnesota.

Heavy snow already covered many sections of the snow belt. Several more inches fell in most of Utah and Idaho Thursday and there were strong winds and drifting. Three inches fell at Salt Lake City. Planes at the Salt Lake City airport were delayed or diverted for several hours until Thursday afternoon. A brief hail storm pelted Boise, Idaho.

The storm left up to 7 inches of snow in the Puget Sound area Wednesday. Traffic was slowed and many schools were closed. The storm fanned by winds up to 47 m.p.h., swept inland and moved eastward into the Rockies.

Cold wave warnings were posted for east of the continental divide, northern and eastern Wyoming during the day and in Colorado today and tonight.

The mercury dropped below zero in parts of Montana and northern Michigan and was near zero in sections of Utah, Idaho, and Wyoming. The 20s and teens prevailed in many Midwest areas, with some lower marks.

In other parts of the nation, more light snow fell in the northern and central Appalachians. Two inches were reported in Binghamton, N.Y., in six hours.

But skies were mostly clear from the South Atlantic states to the southern Plains and in California.

Some of the cold air dipped into parts of the Southland. The mercury dropped to freezing in Atlanta and edged to near freezing at Phoenix, Ariz.

Early morning temperatures ranged from — 5 at Lewistown, Mont., to 66 at Brownsville, Tex.

Request Denied Western Union

WASHINGTON (AP) — An application by Western Union Telegraph Co. to build a network of satellite communication stations was dismissed Thursday by the Federal Communications Commission.

Western Union had sought authority to establish its own network of ground stations in Alabama, Arkansas, Colorado, Iowa and Oregon. The FCC said the application was premature because the commission is looking into the type and nature of a domestic satellite system that should be established.

UA Student Dies in Crash

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Terry Cadenhead, 22, of Shreveport, La., a student at the University of Arkansas, was killed Thursday in a car-truck collision on Arkansas 71 near Winslow.

Officers said another student, Miss Jean Olvey, 18, also of Shreveport, a passenger in the car with Cadenhead, was not hurt seriously.

The driver of the truck, George Ruthford, 44, of Fort Smith, escaped injury.

Indications Are No Tax Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indications are mounting that President Johnson may not ask for a tax increase, at least for the present, to help finance the Vietnam war.

If this proves the case, however, it's also unlikely the administration would rule out a tax increase completely.

The more logical course in such a situation, officials said, would be to retain the wait-and-see attitude adopted by the administration during 1966 — hold the door open to a tax increase from month to month while watching economic developments and budget figures closely.

But the decision on a tax increase is still President Johnson's and the last word from him was that he hadn't made up his mind.

The slowdown in the economy is but one major factor pointing away from a possible tax hike.

It was learned Thursday that congressional leaders are drawing up their schedule for the new session on the assumption that no request for a tax boost will come from the President.

Even the informal soundings which usually come from the White House to lay the groundwork for major legislation are missing now.

New State Park at Dardanelle

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Publicity and Parks Commission has been given a 25-year lease on three public use areas in the downstream end of Dardanelle Reservoir, the Army Engineers announced Thursday.

The engineers said the lease covers the Russellville, Outla and Dardanelle public use areas, which the commission will use as part of the state parks system, and all improvements the engineers has made in them.

Politicians Trying to Find Formula for the Clayton Powell Mess

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker John W. McCormack sought today to hammer out a formula to resolve internal Democratic disputes over the status of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell and the composition of the powerful Rules Committee.

The speaker declined to comment, however, on meetings Thursday with Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, the California Democrat trying to keep Powell from being seated, and a group of liberal Democrats who want to prevent Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., from becoming Rules Committee chairman.

The two issues have become somewhat interrelated, partially as a result of Rep. Richard Bolling's announcement he would try to deny seniority — and therefore chairmanships — of both Powell and Colmer. Powell heads the Education and Labor Committee.

Van Deerlin spent a short time with McCormack shortly after the speaker returned to Washington Thursday for the opening of the 90th Congress next Tuesday.

He said afterward the speaker was "most attentive" but gave no commitments and suggested no alternatives.

Van Deerlin said he still intends to ask that Powell stand aside Tuesday when members

U.S. Downs Two More Enemy MIGs

By ROBERT TUCKMAN
SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — U.S. Air Force pilots downed two more Communist MIG21s over North Vietnam today, running their score of MIG kills for the week to nine, the Air Force announced.

The week's effort wiped out about half of North Vietnam's estimated fleet of 15 to 20 of the late-model MIG21s, the fastest Communist plane in Asia, which can travel 1,500 miles an hour.

U.S. officials said no American planes were lost in the duels with MIGs, but they said one Air Force Phantom jet went down today 100 miles west of Hanoi from "unknown causes."

Both fliers aboard the reconnaissance Phantom were rescued within nine minutes of each other, a U.S. spokesman said.

The two MIGs were brought down 30 miles northwest of Hanoi, the same area where Air Force pilots downed seven MIG21s last Monday and an area which U.S. spokesmen called "MIG Valley."

The U.S. spokesman at first reported that both MIG21s were shot down but later he said one of the Soviet-designed planes was maneuvered into crashing.

Without divulging details, the spokesman said Air Force Phantom pilots by maneuver tactics forced one of the MIGs into an uncontrollable spin. The other MIG was shot down with an air-to-air missile from a Phantom, the spokesman said.

The ground war in South Vietnam continued at a slow pace, as it has since the start of the year.

The U.S. military command reported only minor skirmishes. "South Vietnamese" military headquarters reported a company of regional force troops (80 to 100 men) took heavy casualties from a mortar and ground attack by an estimated battalion of Viet Cong (500 men) 26 miles northwest of Saigon. A spokesman said the militiamen killed 16 Viet Cong.

South Vietnamese troops also reported killing 16 Viet Cong 42 miles southwest of Saigon in the Mekong Delta and taking only "very light" casualties themselves.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported government troops killed 49 Viet Cong in three scattered actions Thursday.

In other developments: Premier Nguyen Cao Ky said "we are getting closer to negotiations every day" of the war. He said peace talks were nearer because North Vietnam is suffering "and we are stronger than ever."

666 Killed on State Highways

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Herman E. Lindsey, director of the State Police, said Thursday a record 666 persons were reported killed in traffic accidents last year, 26 more than the previous high in 1964.

Lindsey said, however, that it was encouraging that there was a decline in traffic deaths during the holiday period just ended. He said 32 persons died in traffic mishaps during the Dec. 22-Jan. 2 period in 1965 compared to 20 during the period last year.

Cong Assured U.S. Ready for Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk declared in a letter made public today that the United States is ready now to meet with representatives of North Vietnam "either in public or in secret to work out arrangements for a just solution" of the Vietnam war.

Rusk also reaffirmed U.S. assurance to the Communist side in the conflict that "there will be no difficulty in having the views of the Viet Cong presented at any serious negotiation."

But he was emphatic in rejecting Communist demands that the National Liberation Front, the Viet Cong's political arm, be represented as sole spokesman for the people of South Vietnam.

These Rusk statements, in a seven-page letter to a North Carolina student leader, came in the midst of worldwide speculation that the leaders in North Vietnam may be becoming more interested in discussions on ending the war than they have been in the past.

U.S. Seeks Assurance of De-escalation as Price to Halt Bombs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is insisting upon assurances of Communist war de-escalation as the price for any halt to bombing of North Vietnam.

And in Saigon South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky said today, "We are getting closer to negotiations every day" to end the Vietnam war.

Ky did not specify when he thought peace talks might come or if his government had received feelers from North Vietnam. "Negotiations mean victory for us," he told newsmen. "It means we have kept our freedom intact. It means they (North Vietnam) recognize they cannot win."

In Washington, the State Department reiterated U.S. policy after a Hanoi diplomat hinted in a Paris speech that an unconditional halt in bombing of North Vietnam might lead to peace talks.

Mal Van Bo, head of the North Vietnamese mission in Paris, said the United States had no right to require any reciprocal move from the Communists in exchange for a halt in bombing. But if the bombing stopped, he said, and the United States followed with a proposal for peace talks, "I believe this proposal would be examined and studied."

State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey said: "Our position has been repeatedly made clear. We are prepared to have talks without any conditions with North Vietnam at any time."

"We are prepared to order a cessation of all bombing of North Vietnam the moment we are assured, privately or otherwise, if this step will be answered promptly by a corresponding and appropriate de-escalation on the other side."

"This could occur before talks started or could be the first order of business in such talks."

McCloskey said he did not regard Bo's statement as a peace feeler.
